Admiral Strauss urges an increase in storage facilities for ammunition supplies, explaining a plan to concentrate the increase at Fort Mifflin, near Philadelphia, for the east coast, and the Puget Sound naval magazine for the west coast.

"We must look for increased activities out on the west coast," he says, "as the result of the opening of the Fanama Canal, and be prepared to handle and store more ammunition there than heretofore. Special Study of Remnants of Original Tribes Planned.

Philadelphia, Dec. 13.—The University of Pennsylvania Museum has organized an expedition to explore and study the art, history and ethnology of China.

The expedition will be dispatched in a few days. It will be under the leadership of C. W. Bishop, a curator of the university. It will first visit the ancient cities of Japan—Nikko, Nara and Kioto—where, it is said, the old temples and palaces contain the finest specimens of Chinese art known to the world.

China will then be visited, and the first explorations will cover a year of preliminary investigations. Especial study will be made of the art and ethnology of the Shans, Lolos and Misot-wide of ships, Lolos and Misot-wide of the charter of ships. According to Bible chronology, the six thousand years of the reign of Sin and Death have ended. We are in the Dawning of the New Dispensation, and the New Order is being gradually introduced. Properly, the awakening came first to God's consecrated people, who long have prayed for the Morning—"Thy Kingdom come!"

The awakening in the Church has gone on during Christ's Parousia (His presence "as a thief" since A. D. 1874). Meantime, the Millennial blessings beginning to come to the world have made the drunken sleeper's restless. As they awaken to these rich blessings they are seized with acquisitiveness.
